Note from the School

Washington Latin PCS provides a classical education accessible to students throughout DC. At our school, people, words, and ideas matter. Our curriculum is rooted in values and questions that have been explored by humans since ancient times. We shape our units around moral questions, and encourage reflection and debate. The diversity of our community provides multiple perspectives on these moral issues and requires all members to consider their own biases. We believe the great end of education is a deep understanding of the motivations and behavior of oneself and others.
